Handbook of Marital Therapy: A Positive Approach to Helping Troubled Relationships Robert P. Liberman, 1980-10-31 In the treatment of marital problems behaviorally oriented and communication oriented approaches have been in conflict and seen as contrasting and unlikely bed partners Many therapists focusing on communication skills have felt that behaviorists were too structured and uncaring on the other hand behaviorists have considered humanistic therapists as being touchy feely vague and unfocused However in the Handbook of Marital Therapy Liberman Wheeler de Visser and the Kuehnels have wedded these two potent approaches into an integrated framework that makes them loving bed partners With over a decade of experience in applying behaviorally oriented treatment to couples Liberman and his co authors have developed an educational model that focuses on teaching specific communication skills to couples The communication skills they describe have been used extensively in all types of marital therapy regardless of the therapist's theoretical orientation The unique contribution of this book is that the authors provide a step by step approach to teaching these communication skills within a behavioral framework Each chapter guides the therapist through the many issues and problems confronting him or her as a change agent This highly readable book is enhanced by a liberal use of case examples Emphasis is given to homework and structured sessions that focus on increasing specific communication skills in a sequential manner The advantages of working with couples in a group setting are discussed and concrete suggestions on how to manage these groups are clearly presented

Overcoming Deficits of Aging Roger L. Patterson,Larry W. Dupree,David A. Eberly,Gary M. Jackson,Michael J. O'Sullivan,Louis A. Penner,Carla Dee Kelly,2013-03-13 That older patients can be successfully treated has only recently been recognized by professionals and by older persons themselves That older persons can also be taught new skills or retaught previously existing skills constitutes even newer knowledge By focusing on the reversibility of behavioral deficits in the elderly the authors under the leadership of Dr Roger Patterson have made both a scientific and a humanitarian contribution to the well being of older persons In this volume they have presented a theoretical basis and a practical how to method of overcoming behavioral deficits They have demonstrated that their modular technique of fostering improved functioning in such areas as activities of daily living and social skills not only has been successful but also has allowed individuals to return to less restrictive environments or to completely independent living The approach is an interdisciplinary one appropriately since older people often experience difficulties in multiple areas of functioning The authors have tried to integrate social medical and behavioral approaches with an emphasis on behavioral methodologies Although this book deals primarily with behavioral approaches to treatment of the elderly in a single setting the volume clearly constitutes a challenge to other scientists and clinicians to apply the techniques described here in other settings A medical colleague of mine a geriatrician recently expressed the opinion that he had never encountered an older patient for whom he could not do something to improve health      Community Mental Health and Behavioral-Ecology A.M. Jeger, R.S. Slotnick, 2012-12-06 This volume is addressed to professionals and students in community mental health including researchers clinicians administrators educators and students in relevant specialities within the fields of psychology psychiatry social work public health and nursing The intent of this book is to serve as a practical resource for professionals and also as a didactic text for students In addition the volume seeks to make a theoretical contribution to the field by presenting for the first time in book form a behavioral ecological perspective in community mental health We present behavioral ecology as an emerging perspective that is concerned with the interdependence of people behavior and their sociophysical environments Behavioral ecology attributes mental health problems to transactions between persons and their settings rather than to causes rooted exclusively within individuals or environments In this volume we advance the notion of behavioral ecology as an integration of two broad perspectives behavioral approaches as derived from the individual psychology of learning and ecological approaches as encompassing the study of communities environments and social systems Through the programs brought together in this book we are arguing for a merging of these two areas for purposes of advancing theory research and practice in community mental health      Parenting and Substance Abuse Nancy E. Suchman, Marjukka Pajulo, Linda C. Mayes, 2013-02-15

Historically there has been little integration of theoretical or applied research on addiction treatment and parenting intervention development Rather the fields of addiction and developmental research have progressed on largely separate trajectories even though their focus powerfully and often tragically intersects each time a parent is diagnosed with a substance use disorder Parenting and Substance Abuse is the first book to report on pioneering efforts to move the treatment of substance abusing parents forward by embracing their roles and experiences as mothers and fathers directly and continually across the course of treatment The chapters in this volume represent important new strides among researchers and clinicians to address and close the increasingly recognizable gap between addiction and developmental science Chapters focus on current state of the art treatment models for parents primarily pregnant and parenting women including descriptions of innovative treatments currently being developed and evaluated that focus on parental addiction and the parent child relationship within a developmental framework Part I covers the theoretical understandings of how addiction impacts the developmental processes of parenting Part II discusses risk assessment evaluation and a variety of interventions and therapies This unique volume will be of importance to clinicians researchers students and trainees in the health professions who develop implement and evaluate interventions for parental addiction including in well baby clinics primary care settings pediatric clinics and residential and outpatient drug treatment programs
