Female Voices from an Ewe Dance-drumming Community in Ghana James Burns, 2017-07-05 Ewe dance drumming has been extensively studied throughout the history of ethnomusicology but up to now there has not been a single study that addresses Ewe female musicians James Burns redresses this deficiency through a detailed ethnography of a group of female musicians from the Dzigbordi community dance drumming club from the rural town of Dzodze located in South Eastern Ghana Dzigbordi was specifically chosen because of the author's long association with the group members and because it is part of a genre known as adekede or female songs of redress where women musicians critique gender relations in society Burns uses audio and video interviews recordings of rehearsals and performances and detailed collaborative analyses of song texts dance routines and performance practice to address important methodological shifts in ethnomusicology that outline a more humanistic perspective of music cultures This perspective encompasses the inter linkages between history social processes and individual creative artists The voices of Dzigbordi women provide us not only with a more complete picture of Ewe music making they further allow us to better understand the relationship between culture social life and individual creativity The book will therefore appeal to those interested in African Studies Gender Studies and Oral Literature as well as ethnomusicology Includes a DVD documentary

Sacred Sites and the Colonial Encounter Sandra E. Greene, 2002-05-14 Greene gives the reader a vivid sense of the Anlo encounter with western thought and Christian beliefs and the resulting erasures transferences adaptations and alterations in their perceptions of place space and the body Emmanuel Akyeampong Sandra E Greene reconstructs a vivid and convincing portrait of the human and physical environment of the 19th century Anlo Ewe people of Ghana and brings history and memory into contemporary context Drawing on her extensive fieldwork early European accounts and missionary archives and publications Greene shows how ideas from outside forced sacred and spiritual meanings associated with particular bodies of water burial sites sacred towns and the human body itself to change in favor of more scientific and regulatory views Anlo responses to these colonial ideas involved considerable resistance and over time the Anlo began to attribute selective varied and often contradictory meanings to the body and the spaces they inhabited

Despite these multiple meanings Greene shows that the Anlo were successful in forging a consensus on how to manage their identity environment and community

African Theology Kodzo Mawusi, 2015-09-16 This book is a theological research done as a comparative study of African Traditional Religion in comparison to Christianity Since Africans in most part are seen around the world as pagans without any concept of the true God until white missionaries got to the continent this study is an effort to change that mentality This book is a result of my research as a theology student to find out what both the Traditional and Christian religions have in common Those who will approach this book with an open mind will realise that Africans when it comes to their spirituality are more spiritual and prayerful than the average Christian in the West Readers will find to their surprise that there are some similarities or commonalities within these religions which most Christians are not even aware of Since the people who brought the notion of this ONE God Christians hold on to so dearly the Hebrews were originally Africans readers should not be surprised when they come across the facts that most of the traditional religious sacrificial traditions are in the Christian book of life we call the Bible Yes this may come as a surprise to most Christians but the truth is we cannot deny their similarities and probably their origin in the Christian tradition because of their African background Hopefully this book will open the door for dialogue between Christians and non Christians about God s presence in every culture

Remains of Ritual Steven M. Friedson, 2010-07-15 Remains of Ritual Steven M Friedson s second book on musical experience in African ritual focuses on the Brekete Gorovodu religion of the Ewe people Friedson presents a multifaceted understanding of religious practice through a historical and ethnographic study of one of the dominant ritual sites on the southern coast of Ghana a medicine shrine whose origins lie in the northern region of the country Each chapter of this fascinating book considers a different aspect of ritual life demonstrating throughout that none of them can be conceived of separately from their musicality in the Brekete world music functions as ritual and ritual as music Dance and possession chanted calls to prayer animal sacrifice the sounds and movements of wake keeping the play of the drums all come under Friedson s careful scrutiny as does his own position and experience within this ritual dominated society

West African Narratives of Slavery Sandra E. Greene, 2011-02-16 Slavery in Africa existed for hundreds of years before it was abolished in the late 19th century Yet we know little about how enslaved individuals especially those who never left Africa talked about their experiences Collecting never before published or translated narratives of Africans from southeastern Ghana Sandra E Greene explores how these writings reveal the thoughts emotions and memories of those who experienced slavery and the slave trade Greene considers how local norms and the circumstances behind the recording of the narratives influenced their content and impact This unprecedented study affords unique insights into how ordinary West Africans understood and talked about their lives during a time of change and upheaval

Food and Identity in Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Ghana Brandi Simpson Miller, 2022-01-11 This book investigates how cooking eating and identity are connected to the local micro climates in each of Ghana s major eco culinary zones The work is based on several years of researching Ghanaian culinary history and cuisine including field work archival research and interdisciplinary investigation The political economy of Ghana is used as an analytical framework with which to investigate the following questions How are traditional food production structures in Ghana coping with global capitalist production distribution and consumption How do land climate and weather structure or provide the foundation for food consumption and how does that affect the separate traditional and capitalist production sectors Despite the post WWII food fight that launched Ghana's bid for independence from the British empire Ghana's story demonstrates the centrality of local foods and cooking to its national character The cultural weight of regional traditional foods their power to satisfy and the overall collective social emphasis on the proper meal have persisted in Ghana irrespective of centuries of trade with Europeans This book will be of interest to scholars in food studies
