Manual of Immunological Methods Canadian Networking, 1998-07-02 The Manual of Immunological Methods represents the collaboration of the Canadian Network of Toxicology Centers a non profit network of university based scientists dedicated to research training risk assessment and communication This manual provides detailed immunological methods that can be utilized by researchers or practitioners who want to enhance the successful application of this science It emphasizes the need for continuously improving the quality of experiments performed and maintaining consistency in the results obtained The Manual of Immunological Methods presents validated assays that are accompanied by a series of tools that will guide readers in performing their own laboratory work in the spirit of the Good Laboratory Practices It covers specific methodologies including sample collection preparation of cells assay conditions and data evaluation Discussion of species differences and comparisons of a wide variety of species is an important feature Both graduate students and practicing researchers in the areas of immunology and immunotoxicology will appreciate the Manual of Immunological Methods as a guide to standard operating procedures in the laboratory

Handbook of Experimental Immunology: Cellular immunology Donald Mackay Weir, 1973 Weir's Handbook of Experimental Immunology, 4 Volume Set L. A. Herzenberg, D. M. Weir, C. Blackwell, 1997-03-13 The new fifth edition of the highly acclaimed Handbook of Experimental Immunology has been completely restructured and extensively revised to reflect the considerable increase in the importance of immunology as a research discipline Produced in four volumes available for separate purchase or as a set the text provides a complete reference including experimental protocols and explications of general principles Each section contains overviews and chapters describing the background and technical detail of a comprehensive range of immunological procedures in immunochemistry cellular immunology genetics and molecular immunology and the application of immunological methods All material available within the four volume text can be found on this new dual platform CD ROM including the extended indexing and cross referencing possible with electronic media The CD ROM also comprises several of the lengthy and highly informative contributions which were abridged in the printed version Also included are additional notes and illustrations which extend the scope of the material and a statistical software package which complements the statistical section of the printed version Handbook of Experimental Immunology; Volume 2: Cellular Immunology DM Weir (Ed), 1986

Handbook of Vertebrate Immunology Paul-Pierre Pastoret, 1998-06-02 This unique book provides a comprehensive and comparative guide to the immune systems of major vertebrate species including domestic and wild animals of veterinary or medical interest fish and amphibia Data in this essential reference work has been compiled by world renowned editors and an international group of authors For each species the information is presented in a structured user friendly format allowing easy cross reference and comparison between the various species This book will be considered the definitive reference work on vertebrate immunology and will be essential for scientists and professionals working in Immunology Vaccinology or with Animal Models for students of Veterinary or Human Medicine Biology and researchers in Comparative Medicine and Physiology Each section devoted to a major animal group covers Lymphoid organs and their anatomical disposition Leukocytes and their markers Leukocyte traffic and associated molecules Cytokines T cell receptors Immunoglobulins MHC antigens Ontogeny of the immune system Passive transfer of immunity Neonatal immune responses Non specific immunity Complement system Mucosal immunity Immunodeficiencies Tumours of the immune system Autoimmunity National Institutes of Health Organization Handbook National Institutes of Health (U.S.),1993 National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), Molecular Biology of B-Cell and T-Cell Development John G. Monroe, Ellen Rothenberg, 2013-03-14 Despite the tremendous diversity of the cells of the hematopoietic system they are all derived from common precursor cells that are generated in the fetus and persist into adult life In this regard Band T lymphocytes which comprise the two arms of the antigen specific and inducible immune system though functionally very different are descendants of the same stem cell precursor In the past several years we have witnessed an explosion of information regarding the process by which differentiation of B and T cells from stem cells occurs This information like the answers to most important biological questions has come from multiple and diverse directions Because all hematopoietic cells arise from common precursors complex regulatory processes must be involved in determining commitment to various lineages Understanding commitment to the B or T cell lineage remains incomplete however identification of transcription factors necessary for progression along specific B and T cell pathways suggests that we are on the verge of understanding the molecules involved in the initial fate determining steps Studies of this type previously could be accomplished only in nonmammalian systems that are more amenable to genetic approaches However new technologies allow increasingly elegant and informative studies in mammalian systems particularly for cells of the hematopoietic system Immunology of Human Infection André J. Nahmias, Richard J. O'Reilly, 2013-11-09 When we were first approached by the senior editors of this series to edit a book on interactions between the host and infectious agents we accepted this offer as an exciting challenge The only condition readily agreed upon was that such a book should focus on the immunology of infections in humans Our reasons if not biases were severalfold We sensed that the fields of microbiology and immunology which had diverged as each was focusing on its individual search were coming together In agreement with the opinions expressed by Dr Richard Krause in the Introduction we strongly believed that the development of the immune system evolved in response to infectious agents and that the evolution of these agents was influenced in turn by the character of the host's responses An intensive examination of the multitude of primitive or more recently developed host defense mechanisms to determine their relative contribution to man's resistance to a given infectious agent appeared to us to be of crucial basic and practical interest Many immune mechanisms studied in animals were being explored in humans and it appeared timely to focus particularly on what was known about man's resistance to infectious agents correlating this information with lessons learned
