international discussion in the field of health policy and health management has focused on the topic of integrated care. Integrated care acknowledges the complexity of patients' needs and aims to meet it by taking into account both health and social care aspects. Changing and improving processes in a coordinated way is at the heart of this approach.

Aging Parents, Aging Children Miriam K. Aronson, Marcella Bakur Weiner, 2007. Sandwiched between the escalating needs of their aging relatives and their own children, today's adults are caught in an intergenerational squeeze. This upbeat self-help book features case examples that speak directly to Boomers and other caregivers and addresses the feelings at play within themselves and their family system. Complete with up-to-date research findings, Aging Parents, Aging Children offers practical advice and methods to help families cope better during this potentially stressful period of life.

Long-term Care Administration Handbook Seth B. Goldsmith, 1993. This handbook is the definitive comprehensive reference for long-term care administration. It provides new ideas, proven approaches, practical suggestions for every aspect of long-term care facility management. Each chapter contains a collection of specialized, advanced expertise presented by long-term care administrators, consultants, academics, planners, attorneys, architects, nurses.

Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging Barbara Berkman, 2006-02-09. The Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging is the first reference to combine the fields of health care, aging, and social work in a single authoritative volume. These areas are too often treated as discrete entities, while the reality is that all social workers deal with issues in health and aging on a daily basis, regardless of practice specialization. As the baby boomers age, the impact on practice in health and aging will be dramatic, and social workers need more specialized knowledge about aging, health care, and the resources available to best serve older adults and their families. The volume's 102 original chapters and 13 overviews, written by the most experienced and prominent gerontological health care scholars in the United States and across the world, provide social work practitioners and educators with up-to-date knowledge of evidence-based practice guidelines for effectively assessing and treating older adults and their families, new models for intervention in both community-based practice and institutional care, and knowledge of significant policy and research issues in health and aging. A truly monumental resource, this handbook represents the best research on health and aging available to social workers today.
