Collaborative Planning Patsy Healey, 2020-03-06. Reviews of 1st edition. A major, carefully argued contribution which should raise the discourse among planning theorists to a new level, a level reserved for a book that succeeds in the ambitious task of weaving together into one fabric theories of planning and theories in planning.

Rachelle Alterman and Tamy Stav. Town Planning Review. A visionary and important work.

A McArthur. Planning and Design. A brilliant exposition of the development of theoretical concepts of planning in the second half of the 20th century.

A Gilg. Perspectives in Rural Policy and Planning. Spatial and environmental planning is an essential feature of all but the very simplest of societies. Its form and role, and the principles on which it should be based, however, have become increasingly controversial questions. In this important book, Patsy Healey draws on a wide range of new thinking in social, political, and spatial theory to provide a framework for planning which is rooted in the institutional realities of our increasingly fragmented societies but designed to foster communication and collaborative action. The second edition includes a major new chapter assessing recent developments in theory and practice.

Social Town Planning Clara Greed, 2002-01-04. Many issues such as access for the disabled, childcare facilities, environmental matters, and ethnic minority issues are excluded from town planning considerations by planning authorities. This book introduces the concept of social town planning to integrate planning policy and practices with the cultural and social issues of the people they are planning for. Part 1 provides background on the development of a social dimension to the predominantly physical land use based British town planning system. Part 2 investigates a representative selection of minority planning topics in respect of gender race age and disability cross linked to the implications for mainstream policy areas such as housing rural planning and transport Part 3 discusses the likely influence of a range of global and European policy initiatives and organisations in changing the agenda of British town planning Planning for healthy cities sustainability social cohesion and equity are discussed Part 4 looks at the problem from a cultural perspective arguing that a great weakness in the British system resulting in ugly and impractical urban design has been the lack of concern among planners with social activities and cultural diversity Alternative more culturally inclusive approaches to planning are presented which might transcend the social spatial dichotomy such as urban time planning Concluding that the process of planning must change the authors agree that the culture and composition of the planning profession must particularly change to be more representative and reflective of the people they are planning for in terms of gender race and minority composition
