Sylvester, 2008-04-14 Although the impact of Hurricane Katrina has certainly been felt in political economic and social terms the impacts on and of the media have largely been ignored This book tells the stories of the reporters newspapers and broadcast stations most affected by Katrina and details their struggles to cover the aftermath

The Best American Short Stories of the Century John Updike, Katrina Kenison, 2000 Including one new story and an Index by author of every story that has ever appeared in the series this new volume offers a spectacular tapestry of fictional achievement Entertainment Weekly

Ten Years after Katrina Mary Ruth Marotte, Glenn Jellenik, 2014-12-18 Hurricane Katrina blasted the Gulf Coast in 2005 leaving an unparalleled trail of physical destruction In addition to that damage the storm wrought massive psychological and cultural trauma on Gulf Coast residents and on America as a whole Details of the devastation were quickly reported and misreported by media outlets and a slew of articles and books followed offering a spectrum of socio political commentaries and analyses But beyond the reportage and the commentary a series of fictional and creative accounts of the Katrina experience have emerged in various mediums novels plays films television shows songs graphic novels collections of photographs and works of creative non fiction that blur the lines between reportage memoir and poetry The creative outpouring brings to mind Salman Rushdie s observation that Man is the storytelling animal the only creature on earth that tells itself stories to understand what kind of creature it is This book accepts the urge behind Rushdie s formula humans tell stories in order to understand ourselves our world and our place in it Indeed the creative output on Katrina represents efforts to construct a cohesive narrative out of the wreckage of a cataclysmic event However this book goes further than merely cataloguing the ways that Katrina narratives support Rushdie s rich claim This collection represents a concentrated attempt to chart the effects of Katrina on our cultural identity it seeks to not merely catalogue the trauma of the event but to explore the ways that such an event functions in and on the literature that represents it The body of work that sprung out of Katrina offers a unique critical opportunity to better understand the genres that structure our stories and the ways stories reflect and produce culture and identity These essays raise new questions about the representative genres themselves The stories are efforts to represent and understand the human condition but so are the organizing principles that communicate the stories That is Katrina narratives present an opportunity to interrogate the ways that specific narrative structures inform our understanding and develop our cultural identity This book offers a critical processing of the newly emerging and diverse canon of Katrina texts

Consuming Katrina Kate Parker Horigan, 2018-06-04 When and under what circumstances are disaster survivors able to speak for themselves in the public arena In Consuming Katrina Public Disaster and Personal Narrative author Kate Parker Horigan shows how the public understands and remembers large scale disasters like Hurricane Katrina outlining which stories are remembered and why as well as the impact on public memory and the survivors themselves Horigan discusses unique contexts in which personal narratives about the storm are shared including interviews with survivors Dave Eggers s Zeitoun Josh Neufeld s A D New Orleans After the Deluge Tia Lessin and Carl Deal s Trouble the Water and public commemoration during Hurricane Katrina s tenth anniversary in New Orleans In each case survivors initially present themselves in specific ways counteracting negative stereotypes that characterize their communities However when adapted for public presentation their stories get reduced back to those stereotypes As a result people affected by Katrina continue to be seen in limited terms as either undeserving or incapable of managing recovery This project is rooted in Horigan s experiences living in New Orleans before and after Katrina but it is also a case study illustrating an ongoing problem and an innovative solution survivors stories should be shared in a way that includes their own engagement with the processes of narrative production circulation and reception When survivors are seen as agents in their own stories they will be seen as agents in their own recovery Having a better grasp on the processes of narration and memory is critical for improved disaster response because the stories that are most widely shared about disaster determine how communities recover Faroese Short Stories ,1972 Stories dealing largely with conditions in the early part of the twentieth century Katrina Gary Rivlin,2016-08-23 An investigative journalist revisits Hurricane Katrina s immediate damage the city of New Orleans efforts to rebuild itself and the storm s lasting effects on the psychic racial and social fabric of the city There is No Such Thing as a Natural Disaster Gregory Squires,Chester Hartman,2013-01-11 There is No Such Thing as a Natural Disaster is the first comprehensive critical book on the catastrophic impact of Hurricane Katrina on New Orleans The disaster will go down on record as one of the worst in American history not least because of the government s inept and cavalier response But it is also a huge story for other reasons the impact of the hurricane was uneven and race and class were deeply implicated in the unevenness Hartman and Squires assemble two dozen critical scholars and activists who present a multifaceted portrait of the social implications of the disaster The book covers the response to the disaster and the roles that race and class played its impact on housing and redevelopment the historical context of urban disasters in America and the future of economic development in the region It offers strategic guidance for key actors government agencies financial institutions neighbourhood organizations in efforts to rebuild shattered communities The Best American Short Stories, 1993 Louise Erdrich,1993 Contains twenty of the best short stories of 1993 The Best American Short Stories 2001 Barbara Kingsolver,Katrina Kenison,2001 Kingsolver s selections for this anthology showcase a wide variety of new voices and masters such as Alice Munro Rick Moody Dorothy West and John Updike Face to Face with Katrina Survivors Lemuel A.
