and Affordable Housing Anthony Downs, 2004-06-15 Advocates of growth management and smart growth often propose policies that raise housing prices thereby making housing less affordable to many households trying to buy or rent homes Such policies include urban growth boundaries zoning restrictions on multi family housing utility district lines building permit caps and even construction moratoria Does this mean there is an inherent conflict between growth management and smart growth on the one hand and creating more affordable housing on the other Or can growth management and smart growth promote policies that help increase the supply of affordable housing These issues are critical to the future of affordable housing because so many local communities are adopting various forms of growth management or smart growth in response to growth related problems Those problems include rising traffic congestion the absorption of open space by new subdivisions and higher taxes to pay for new infrastructures This book explores the relationship between growth management and smart growth and affordable housing in depth It draws from material presented at a symposium on these subjects held at the Brookings Institution in May 2003 sponsored by the U S Department of Housing and Urban Development the National Association of Realtors and the Fannie Mae Foundation Contributors seek to inform the debate and provide some useful answers to help the nation accommodate the curtailment of growth in urban and suburban domains while still ensuring a supply of affordable housing Contributors include Karen Destorel Brown Brookings Robert Burchell Rutgers University Daniel Carlson University of Washington David L Crawford Econsult Corporation Anthony Downs Brookings Ingrid Gould Ellen New York University William Fischel Dartmouth College George C Galster Wayne State University Jill Khadduri Abt Associates Gerrit J Knaap University of Maryland Robert Lang Virginia Polytechnic Designed for Habitat David Hinson, Justin Miller, 2013-05-07 If you're looking for ways to give back to your community then this book the first to profile thirteen projects designed and built by architects and Habitat for Humanity will help Detailed plans sections and photographs show you how these projects came about the strategies used by each team to approach the design and construction process and the obstacles they overcame to realize a successful outcome The lessons and insights presented here will aid you whether you're an architect architecture student Habitat affiliate leader or an affordable housing advocate Located all across the United States these projects represent the full spectrum of Habitat for Humanity affiliates from large urban affiliates to small rural programs These cases illustrate a broad range of innovative approaches to energy performance alternative construction strategies and responses to site context And each house demonstrates that design quality need not fall victim to the rigorous imperatives of cost delivery and financing Affordable Housing and Public-Private Partnerships Nestor M. Questioning Architectural Judgment Steven A. Moore, Barbara B. Wilson, 2013-07-24 The book shines light on the problem of judgment particularly in the realm of architectural technics and the codes that regulate it The struggle to define sustainability and thus judge architecture through such lenses is but one dimension of the contemporary problem of judgment By providing the reader with an inherently interdisciplinary study of a particular discipline architecture it brings to the topic lenses that challenge the too frequently unexamined assumptions of the discipline By situating architecture within a broader cultural field and using case studies to dissect the issues discussed the book emphasizes that it is not simply a matter of designing better more efficient or more stringent codes to guide place making but a matter of reconstructing the boundaries of the systems to be coded The authors are winners of the EDRA Place Research Award 2014 for their work on the Green Alley Demonstration Project used in the book
