Educ Policy Directions In Aotearoa Nz:

Education Policy Directions in Aotearoa New Zealand John Albert Codd, Keith Sullivan, 2005 Education Policy Directions in Aotearoa New Zealand offers a critical perspective on recent educational policy developments It comments on future policy needs and directions while providing a theorized and research based account of policies in areas such as early childhood education schooling tertiary education Maori education and special education Education Research and Policy Jennifer Ozga, Terri Seddon, Thomas S. Popkewitz, 2006 The 2006 edition of one of the most respected annual publication in education focusing on research and its effects on educational policy around the globe Democracy and Multicultural Education Farideh Salili, Rumjahn Hoosain, 2010-04-01 Democratic political systems and the democratic way of life is aspired by most people around the world Democracy is considered to be morally superior to other forms of political systems as it aspires to secure civil liberties human rights social justice and equality before the law for everyone regardless of their gender culture religion and national origin Enshrined in democracy is separation of religion and state fair and competitive elections of leaders according to a country s constitution which in turn is based on democratic ideals Democracy aspires for people of different backgrounds to live together with their differences intact but all contributing towards a better life for all In today s increasingly pluralistic societies many people of different cultural and national backgrounds are brought together Many have migrated from countries with autocratic political systems Some with religions that require them to behave in different way others with cultures teaching them values of harmony collectivism and conformity as opposed to the culture of their host country emphasizing individualism and cherishing differences Hence in multicultural societies development of pluralistic democracy a democracy which includes respect for diversity is essential A truly multicultural education which is based on the assumption that different cultures will be equally represented in education goes a long way towards education for democratic citizenship Such an education would make students aware of issues of human rights and justice and encourage them to define their own values and ways in which they could contribute to a better world The aim of this volume is to provide a forum for discussion of how multiple social perspectives and personal values can be brought together on common grounds around matters related to democracy Contributions from research and scholarly theoretical work as well as presentation of existing creative models of democracy education will be included Authors from the major democracies will comment on the models and practice of multicultural education in their respective countries to facilitate discussion and learning from each others experiences The Decommodification of Early Childhood Education and Care Michel Vandenbroeck, Joanne Lehrer, Linda Mitchell, 2022-12-30 The Decommodification of Early Childhood Education and Care Resisting Neoliberalism explores how processes of marketisation and privatisation of ECEC have impacted understandings of children childcare parents and the workforce providing concrete examples of resistance to commodification from diverse contexts Through processes of marketisation and privatisation neoliberal discourses have turned ECEC into a commodity whereby economic principles of competition and choice have replaced the purpose of education The Decommodification of Early Childhood Education and Care Resisting Neoliberalism offers new and alternative understandings of policy and practice Written with co authors from diverse countries case studies vividly portray resistance to children as human capital to the consumentality of parents and to the alienation of the early childhood workforce Ending with messages of hope the authors discuss the demise of neoliberalism and offer new ways forward As an international book with global messages contributing to theory policy and practice regarding alternatives to a neoliberal and commodified vision of ECEC this book offers inspiration for policy makers and practitioners to develop local resistance solutions It will also be of interest to post graduate students researchers educators and pre service educators with an interest in critical pedagogy ECEC policy and ECEC practice

Democratic Policies and Practices in Early Childhood Education Linda Mitchell, 2018-10-24 This book uses case studies of Aotearoa New Zealand policy formulation and practice to explore early childhood education and care ECEC as a site for democratic citizenship and social justice Addressing fundamental questions about the purpose of education it argues for explicit values focusing on children and childhood as a basis for ECEC policy to replace discourses of economic investment and child vulnerability that are dominant within policy goals in many countries A commitment to democracy and equity is a good place to start Aotearoa New Zealand is of special interest because of its world renowned ECE curriculum Te Whāriki which is based on principles of social justice respect for rights and an aim to support children growing up in a democracy The curriculum upholds Māori rights to tino rangatiratanga absolute authority over their lives and resources Yet Aotearoa New Zealand's extreme market policies and harsh labour laws during recent periods run contrary to ideals of democracy and are puzzlingly inconsistent with curriculum principles The book starts with an analysis and critique of global trends in ECEC in countries that share capitalist mixed economies of welfare and where competition and marketisation have become dominant principles It then analyses ideas about children childhood and ECEC within a framework of democracy going back to the Athenian origins of democracy and including recent literature on meanings and traditions of democracy in education The book uses vivid examples from researching curriculum pedagogy and assessment practices within Aotearoa New Zealand ECEC settings and collective action to influence policy change in order to illustrate opportunities for democratic education It concludes by examining what conditions might be needed for integrated and democratic ECEC provision in Aotearoa New Zealand and what changes are necessary for the future It offers a compass not a map it points to promising directions and provides insights into issues in ECEC policy and practice that are of current global concern

Patriotism and Citizenship Education Bruce Haynes, 2010-01-15 Seven authors describe the controversial nature of patriotism and citizenship education in their country basing their account and recommendations upon their philosophical understanding of education and schooling Offers differing national perspectives on patriotism across the United States South Africa New Zealand Australia Japan and England Discusses varying accounts of how patriotism and citizenship education should be handled as part of the school curriculum Provides crucial insights into how schools handle social and political demands on controversial topics

Educational Change and the Secondary School Music Curriculum in Aotearoa New Zealand Graham McPhail, Vicki Thorpe, Stuart Wise, 2018-02-13 Educational Change and the Secondary School Music Curriculum in Aotearoa New Zealand provides a fascinating case study in educational change The music curriculum has been greatly affected by deep cultural and economic forces such as the growth of popular music's importance in young people's lives by demands for inclusive and multicultural education and not least by advances in technology that promise to invigorate all aspects of teaching and learning This book brings together the work of a number of leading music education scholars and teachers from Aotearoa New Zealand to both explore these issues and to share case studies of practice both the positive changes and the unintended consequences Each chapter focuses on a current issue in music education and the final chapter contains responses from a number of practitioners to the issues raised by the authors drawing together the practical and theoretical dimensions of the book

Handbook of Early Childhood Education Marilyn Fleer, Bert van Oers, 2017-10-10 This international handbook gives a comprehensive overview of findings from longstanding and contemporary research theory and practices in early childhood education in the Northern and Southern hemispheres The first volume of the handbook addresses theory methodology and the research activities and research needs of particular regions The second volume examines in detail innovations and longstanding programs curriculum and assessment and conceptions and research into child family and communities The two volumes of this handbook address the current theory methodologies and research needs of specific countries and provide insight into existing global similarities in early childhood practices By paying special attention to what is happening in the larger world contexts the volumes provide a representative overview of early childhood education practices and research and redress the current North South imbalance of published work on the subject World Yearbook of Education 2006 Jenny

Ozga, Terri Seddon, Thomas S. Popkewitz, 2013-01-11 This volume considers the ways in which educational research is being shaped by policy across the globe Policy effects on research are increasingly influential as policies in and beyond education drive the formation of a knowledge based economy by supporting increased international competitiveness through more effective evidence based interventions in schooling education and training systems What consequences does this increased steering have for research in education How do transnational agencies make their influence felt on educational research How do national systems and traditions of educational research and relations with policy respond to these new pressures What effects does it have on the quality of research and on the freedom of researchers to pursue their own agendas The 2006 volume of the World Yearbook of Education explores these issues focusing on three key themes globalising policy and research in education steering education research in national contexts global local politics of education research The 2006 volume has a truly global reach incorporating transnational policy perspectives from the OECD and the European Commission alongside national cases from across the world in contrasting contexts that include North and South America Canada France Singapore China Russia and New Zealand The range of contributions reflect how pervasive these developments are how much is new in this situation and to what extent evidence based policy pressures on research in education build on past relationships between education and policy This book considers the impact of the steering processes on the work and identities of individual researchers and considers how research can be organised to play a more active role in the politics of the knowledge economy and learning society

Pedagogies of Educational Transitions Nadine Ballam, Bob Perry, Anders Garpelin, 2016-10-04 This book presents the latest research on educational transitions from a variety of research traditions and practical contexts set in Australia New Zealand and several European countries It examines critically questions and reshapes ideas and notions about children's transitions to school The book is divided into five parts the first two of which emphasise diversity and inclusion with Part II focusing solely on the transition to school for children from Indigenous cultures Part III explores the notion of continuity which has been widely debated in terms of its role in the transition to school Part IV explores the transition to school through the notion of crossing borders The final section of this book Part V includes ideas about future directions for work in the area of educational transitions and presents the notion of transitions as a tool for change to policy research and practice The book concludes with a critical synthesis of the research outlined throughout including recommendations regarding future research related to educational transitions

Sight, Sound and Text in the History of Education Jody Crutchley, Stephen Parker, Siân Roberts, 2020-06-29 This volume contributes to the study of new sonic and visual sources and their intertextual relationship with the documentary as well as traditional understandings of text in the history of education It both presents case studies of research and points to new avenues of further research This volume arose from a joint conference of the History of Education Society UK and the Australian and New Zealand History of Education Society held in 2016 on the theme sight sound and text in the history of education The conference drew together educational and media historians as well as archivists and museum professionals to examine methodological issues and a range of examples of sensory and textual histories The event from which this book arose showed that there is so much more to consider in this area This book was originally published as a special issue of History of Education Benchmarking and Threshold Standards in Higher Education Michael Armstrong, Sally Brown, Helen Smith, 2014-05-12 The specification of standards in higher education has long been the subject of international debate This text covers the rationales operational issues and perspectives on benchmarking and standards from international viewpoints World Sustainable Development Outlook 2007 Allam Ahmed, 2017-09-29 The World Sustainable Development Outlook series has been developed to provide an overview of sustainable development to discuss why it is important and to provoke forward thinking on the development of a more coherent approach to solving global problems related to sustainability through science and technology In doing so a holistic approach is used to critically examine the interrelationship between the natural governmental economic and social dimensions of our world and how science and technology can contribute to solutions This is a truly global source book which is reflected in the varied national and cultural origins of the contributors as well as the topics and case studies covered Each year a different theme will be covered The theme of World Sustainable Development Outlook 2007 is the different dimensions of knowledge and technology management in the new era of information revolution and how they relate to sustainable development Rapid innovation in information and communication technologies ICTs is clearly reshaping the world we live in Countries are increasingly judged by whether they are information rich or information poor It is estimated that 30 40% of the world's economic growth and 40 50% of all new jobs will be IT driven Education and knowledge are the chief currencies of the modern age and can also be a strategic resource and a lifeline for sustainable development Yet in Africa millions of people have never made a telephone call The technological gulf between developed and developing countries DCs is likely to widen further with the rapid expansion of the internet and the speedy transition to digitalisation in the West The impacts on DCs may include an increase in the so called brain drain and growing dependence on foreign aid of a different kind knowledge aid There are fears that knowledge imperialism is already with us What is clear is that most of the technological innovations in ICTs are Western designed and fail to address the needs of the most disadvantaged The interest of industrialised countries in the use of ICTs in DCs has largely been more concerned with the profitability of their own business enterprises than with any broader goals concerning the development of the host countries DCs face the challenge of either becoming an integral part of the knowledge based global economy or the very real danger of finding themselves on the wrong side of the digital divide Successful management in the new millennium requires developing new methods and approaches to meet the challenges and opportunities of this information revolution while at the same time fostering sustainable development Adopting a holistic approach this book aims to critically examine the interrelationship between these different issues in order to reach solutions and a consensus for a better future taking into account a variety of international institutional and intellectual perspectives It uses case and country studies in technological innovation and experience so that lessons in effective management of ICTs can be learned from successful initiatives ideas and innovations

Early Childhood in the Anglosphere Peter Moss, Linda Mitchell, 2024-05-09 Written by two leading international experts Early Childhood in the Anglosphere offers a unique comparison of early childhood education and care services and parenting leave across seven high income Anglophone countries Peter Moss and Linda Mitchell explore what these systems have in common including the dominance of childcare services widespread privatisation and marketisation and weak parenting leave They highlight the substantial failings of these systems and the causes and consequences of these failings But this book is ultimately about hope about how these failings might be made good through major changes In other words it is about transformation why transformation is both necessary and possible at this particular time what transformation might look like and how it might happen Part of that transformation concerns the need for new policies and structures but even more it is about how the Anglosphere thinks about early childhood The authors call for turning away from conceptualising early childhood services as childcare and marketised businesses selling commodities to parent consumers and for reconceptualising them as education imbued with an ethics of care a public good available as a right to all children and families and complemented by well paid individual entitlements to parenting leave Using examples from the Anglosphere and beyond and in a context of converging crises the book argues that transformation of thinking policies and structures is desirable and doable

Student Engagement in Neoliberal Times Nick Zepke, 2016-12-14 This book investigates origins meanings uses and effects of student engagement in higher education and addresses three core questions 1 Why is student engagement so visible in higher education today 2 What are its dominant characteristics 3 What is missing in the popular view of student engagement These questions pave the way for a fresh approach to student engagement The book argues that an elective affinity between student engagement and policies embedded in neoliberalism the dominant ideology of the early 21st century enables student engagement to transcend diverse intellectual and practice contexts This affinity encourages quality learning and teaching that enables student to succeed in their studies and future careers The book shows that focusing on neoliberal objectives for learning and teaching limits the potential of student engagement in higher education This conclusion leads to a critical and practical social ecological perspective that approaches engagement more as a pathway to social justice than as a list of techniques This book is a work of critical scholarship backed by empirical research It questions accepted theories and practices and offers fresh insights into student engagement in higher education including how engagement could promote social justice

The Routledge International Handbook of Philosophies and

Theories of Early Childhood Education and Care Tricia David, Kathy Goouch, Sacha Powell, 2015-10-05 The Routledge Handbook of Philosophies and Theories of Early Childhood Education and Care brings together leading writers in the field to provide a much needed authoritative guide to the major philosophies and theories which have shaped approaches to Early Childhood Education and Care Providing a detailed overview of key concepts debates and practical challenges the handbook combines theoretical acumen with specific examples to show how philosophies and theories have evolved over the centuries and their impact on policy and society It examines the ways in which societies define and make sense of childhood and the factors that influence the development of philosophies about young children and their learning The collection offers an insight into the key theorists and considers how the economics and politics of their time and personal ideology influenced their ideas about childhood It looks at curricula and provision which have proved inspirational and how these have impacted on policy and practice in different parts of the world The handbook also explores alternative and perhaps less familiar philosophies and ideas about babies and young children their place in society and the ways in which it might be appropriate to educate them Bringing together specially commissioned pieces by a range of international authors this handbook will enable academics research students practitioners and policy makers to reflect on their own understandings and approaches as well as the assumptions made in their own and other societies
