Anthony Montgomery, Ian Kehoe

Education Is Translation A Metaphor For Change In Learning And Teaching:

Education Is Translation Alison Cook-Sather, 2006 Her analysis reveals how teaching and learning are intimately linked together how technology can transform learning and how teachers and learners must reposition themselves in order to achieve the most transformative education Jacket Reimagining the Purpose of Schools and Educational Organisations Anthony Montgomery, Ian Kehoe, 2015-12-22 This book features a diverse set of perspectives all focused towards questioning the role schools actually play in society and more importantly the role they could potentially play Containing papers presented at the 1st International Conference on Reimagining Schooling which took place in Thessaloniki Greece June 2013 bringing together international and multi disciplinary perspectives on the future of education and schools Combines diverse specialties analyzing schools as organizations and questions the purpose of schools The book explores the current purpose of schooling and debates what roles and values young people currently learn from schooling It examines such issues as the impact of Neoliberalism the pursuit of the socially just school and imagining contemporary schools beyond their consumerist mentality Tackling development in the growing economic and social crisis in Europe and offering transformative analysis of the psychology and decision making involved for innovating teaching learning socio economic and policy contexts In addition the book shows different ways young people can be creatively involved in reimagining schooling It also details both innovative and radical ideas that currently exist about school transformation such as building learning partnerships for all and creating synergies across formal and informal settings of learning Raising important questions for the future of the relationship between teacher and pupil and positive and pro active behavior There is a growing realization that schools fail to accommodate diverse types of learning and that their purpose is not simply about education Featuring academics and practitioners from many different disciplines this book boldly questions the values that currently permeate school walls and suggests ways that schooling itself can be made better The SAGE Handbook of Research on Teacher Education D. Jean Clandinin, Jukka Husu, 2017-06-14 The SAGE Handbook of Research on Teacher Education offers an ambitious and international overview of the current landscape of teacher education research as well as the imagined futures The two volumes are divided into sub sections Section One Mapping the Landscape of Teacher Education Section Two Learning Teacher Identity in Teacher Education Section Three Learning Teacher Agency in Teacher Education Section Four Learning Moral Ethical Responsibilities of Teaching in Teacher Education Section Five Learning to Negotiate Social Political and Cultural Responsibilities of Teaching in Teacher Education Section Six Learning through Pedagogies in Teacher Education Section Seven Learning the Contents of Teaching in Teacher Education Section Eight Learning Professional Competencies in Teacher Education and throughout the Career Section Nine Learning with and from Assessments in Teacher Education Section Ten The Education and Learning of Teacher Educators Section Eleven The Evolving Social and Political Contexts of Teacher Education Section Twelve A Reflective Turn This handbook is a landmark collection for all those interested in current research in teacher education and the possibilities for how research can influence future teacher education practices and policies The Routledge International Handbook of Teacher and School Development Christopher Day,2012 The contributions are authoritative and of high quality This is an important resource The Teacher Trainer A seminal state of the art critical review of teacher and school development which touches upon and discusses issues at both policy and practice levels Social Studies and Diversity Education Elizabeth E. Heilman,Ramona Fruja,Matthew Missias,2010-01-21 The preparation of social studies teachers is crucial not only to the project of good education but even more broadly to the cultivation of a healthy democracy and the growth of a nation s citizens This one of a kind resource features ideas from over 100 of the field s most thoughtful teacher educators reflecting on their best practices and offering specific strategies through which future teachers can learn to teach thus illuminating the careful planning and deep thinking that go into the preparation of the social studies teachers While concentrating on daily teaching realities such as lesson planning and meeting national state or provincial standards each contributor also wrestles with the most important current issues on educating teachers for today s increasingly diverse complex and global society Features of this unique teaching resource include Volume sections that are arranged by both disciplinary organization and approach or activity Thoughtful introductory section essays that conceptualize each theme providing a conscientious theoretical overview and analysis of each individual section Rich and concrete examples of best practice from some of the field s most diverse and highly regarded scholars and teacher educators An index that identifies the appropriate teaching level and teacher education context and links the strategies and ideas that are presented in the essay to the relevant INTASC and NCSS standards for quick reference in classroom planning as well as institutional development and implementation A much needed addition to the field this comprehensive volume will be of value to any teacher interested in social studies or diversity education across age groups and educational contexts Taking Teaching Seriously Christopher Bjork,D. Kay Johnston,Heidi A. Ross,2015-12-03 Taking Teaching Seriously expands and enriches discussions about teacher preparation in the United States Its authors describe the unique contexts for teacher preparation offered by liberal arts institutions and analyze the effects of these programs on their graduates and on K12 schools They emphasize that the goals and conditions for teacher preparation differ from larger public institutions in several key respects including supervisor student teacher relationships philosophical foundations and approaches to clinical fieldwork Taken together the essays provide compelling evidence that educational studies programs in liberal arts colleges and universities constitute a vital component of the teacher education system in the United States Engaging with Student Voice in Research, Education and Community Nicole Mockler,Susan Groundwater-Smith,2014-10-09 This work interrupts the current consulting students discourse that positions students as service clients and thus renders more problematic the concept of student voice in ways that it might be sustained as a democratic process It looks at student voice holistically across realms of classroom practices higher education practitioner inquiry and policy formulation The authors render problematic the empowerment rhetoric that is the dominant and insufficient narrative justifying consulting children and young people They explore the many contradictions and ambiguities associating with recruiting and encouraging them to participate and the varying impacts of different circumstances on the ways in which student voice projects are enacted They perceive that it is possible for student voice projects to be subverted from both above and below as varying stakeholders with varying purposes struggle to manage and control projects Importantly the book reports on research that identifies and highlights conditions for initiating and sustaining student voice and include beyond school dimensions that consider young people as audiences who can inform community facilities their development and design as well as undergraduate students in universities These cases are not reported as celebratory but rather act as narratives that illuminate the many challenges facing those who chose to work with young people in authentic ways It both advances methodologies for engaging young people as active agents in the design and interpretation of research that concerns them and offers a critique of those methods that see young people as the objects of research where the data is mined for purposes that do not recognise that students are the consequential stakeholders with respect to decisions made in their interests

Visual Research Methods in Educational Research Julianne Moss, Barbara Pini, 2016-04-12 Have you noticed there is a burgeoning take up of visual research in education Are you considering using visual research as part of your next research project or revitalising your research methods course For researchers who are new to the field of VRMs in education there is little critical literature on the subject This book addresses the gap in the literature and brings together some of the leading educational researchers engaging and reflecting on the visual from Australia the UK and Canada Encapsulated in a single volume this book sets out theoretically grounded discussions of the possibilities and challenges of the approach for educational researchers around four key themes images of schooling performing pedagogy power and representation and ethical issues in educational research International Handbook of Student Experience in Elementary and Secondary School D. Thiessen, Alison Cook-Sather, 2007-06-03 The International Handbook of Student Experience in Elementary and Secondary School brings together in a single volume the groundbreaking work of scholars who have conducted studies of student experiences of school in Afghanistan Australia Canada England Ghana Ireland Pakistan and the United States Drawing extensively on students interpretations of their experiences in school as expressed in their own words chapter authors offer insight into how students conceptualize and approach school understand and address the ongoing social opportunities for and challenges in working with other students and teachers and the multiple ways in which they shape and contribute to school improvement The individual chapters are framed by an opening chapter which provides background on bases of and trends in research on students experiences of school and a final chapter which uses the interpretive framework translation provided to explore how researching students experiences of school challenges those involved to translate their qualitative research methods the terms they evoke to describe and define students experiences of schools and in fact themselves as researchers Training for Doctoral Research J IAN Mason,2009-01-30 Following the rapid expansion of translation studies as an emergent inter discipline over recent decades demand for doctoral research opportunities is now growing fast in many countries At the same time doctoral training packages of a generic nature have been elaborated and refined at many universities drawing on long traditions of doctoral research in established disciplines A degree of consensus no doubt exists on such matters as the need for rigor method and the generation of new knowledge Beyond that however there are a host of issues specific to translation and interpreting studies that remain under researched and under discussed Contributors to this special issue encourage reflection on a range of issues in ways that foster further debate and collaboration on the development of doctoral studies within the field A number of concrete proposals are offered that could be adapted to local situations in different countries and academic settings While some of the contributions adopt a mainly empirical stance others adopt a broad perspective on training citing examples of widely differing projects Two contributors offer insights from personal experience of doctoral study while another describes the organization of doctoral work within the conceptual framework of a research group All consider training from the angle of student needs and offer concrete suggestions for ensuring that doctoral candidates are equipped with the guidance concepts methods and tools required for success Learning from the Student's Perspective Alison Cook-Sather,Brandon Clarke,Daniel

Condon,Kathleen Cushman,Helen Demetriou,Lois Easton,2015-11-17 Much has been written about how to engage students in their learning but very little of it has issued from students themselves Compiled by one of the leading scholars in the field of student voice this sourcebook draws on the perspectives of secondary students in the United States England Canada and Australia as well as on the work of teachers researchers and teacher educators who have collaborated with a wide variety of students Highlighting student voices it features five chapters focused on student perspectives articulated in their own words regarding specific approaches to creating and maintaining a positive classroom environment and designing engaging lessons and on more general issues of respect and responsibility in the classroom To support educators in developing strategies for accessing and responding to student voices in their own classrooms the book provides detailed guidelines created by educational researchers for gathering and acting upon student perspectives To illustrate how these approaches work in practice the book includes stories of how pre service and in service teachers school leaders and teacher educators have made student voices and participation central to their classroom and school practices And finally addressing both practical and theoretical questions the book includes a chapter that outlines action steps for high school teachers school leaders and teacher educators and a chapter that offers a conceptual framework for thinking about and engaging in this work Bringing together in a single text student perspectives descriptions of successful efforts to access them in secondary education contexts concrete advice for practitioners and a theoretical framework for further exploration this sourcebook can be used to guide practice and support re imagining education in secondary schools of all kinds and the principles can be adapted for other educational contexts Student Engagement Handbook Elisabeth Dunne, Derfel Owen, 2013-11-05 This book highlights some of the national and global agendas and issues from emerging sectors to the meaning of student engagement for different stakeholders It provides a backdrop to themes of student engagement as well as examples of innovative and inspiring means of engaging with students in practice empowering them to take responsibility wi

Cosmopolitan Perspectives on Academic Leadership in Higher Education Feng Su, Margaret Wood, 2017-02-23 This book explores what academic leadership in higher education might mean in the cosmopolitan and increasingly globalised 21st century through individual academics narrative accounts drawn from a range of international contexts The book shows that academic leadership is key to an individual s development and that it could mean different things in different settings as academics operate across the levels of professional practice institutional organisation sector wide systems and international networks This book argues for the importance of cosmopolitan perspectives on academic leadership which are developed from the particularities of local and everyday situated experience Part I of the book explores key theoretical perspectives Part II provides first hand accounts from the contributors of their own development as academic leaders and Part III discusses some of the implications for those with responsibility for academic development and for all those concerned with developing the qualities necessary for leadership practices

Challenging the Prison-Industrial Complex Stephen J. Hartnett, 2011 Boldly and eloquently contributing to the argument against the prison system in the United States these provocative essays offer an ideological and practical framework for empowering prisoners instead of incarcerating them Experts and activists who have worked within and against the prison system join forces here to call attention to the debilitating effects of a punishment driven society and offer clear eyed alternatives that emphasize working directly with prisoners and their communities Edited by Stephen John Hartnett the volume offers rhetorical and political analyses of police culture the so called drug war media coverage of crime stories and the public school to prison pipeline The collection also includes case studies of successful prison arts and education programs in Michigan California Missouri Wisconsin and Pennsylvania that provide creative and intellectual resources typically denied to citizens living behind bars Writings and artwork created by prisoners in such programs richly enhance the volume Contributors are Buzz Alexander Rose Braz Travis L Dixon Garrett Albert Duncan Stephen John Hartnett Julilly Kohler Hausmann Daniel Mark Larson Erica R Meiners Janie Paul Lori Pompa Jonathan Shailor Robin Sohnen and Myesha Williams Ancient Pasts for Modern Audiences Chelsea A.M. Gardner, Sabrina C. Higgins, 2025-03-17 This volume brings together specialists from a broad demographic and professional range academics museum curators students and content creators to discuss case studies challenges and potential future avenues for public scholarship on the history archaeology and cultures of the ancient Mediterranean North Africa and Western Asia Together the contributions promote the creation of inclusive methods of knowledge mobilisation and communication in public spheres across three main areas cultural heritage pedagogy and public facing scholarship These areas have all been directly affected by Eurocentric structures that have claimed ownership of ancient Mediterranean cultural heritage and have dictated how it has been taught in schools and communicated to the broader public The volume is divided into three sections Museums Teaching and Learning and Global and Local Projects each addressing pressing challenges faced within these interrelated fields and offering ways for us to overcome the exclusionary narratives that plague them Ancient Pasts for Modern Audiences provides an invaluable resource for those interested in public history from academics to lay audiences in the fields of Ancient Mediterranean North African and Western Asian Studies The book also appeals to professionals and researchers whose interests lie in public facing scholarship pedagogy digital humanities decolonisation studies museum studies and popular media The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

To Improve the Academy Judith E. Miller, 2010-10-18 An annual publication of the Professional and Organizational Development Network in Higher Education POD To Improve the Academy offers a resource for improvement in higher education to faculty and instructional development staff department chairs faculty deans student services staff chief academic officers and educational consultants Anthropology & Education Quarterly, 2006 Growing a Soul for Social Change Tonya Huber-Warring, 2008-04-01 For readers new to the field of multicultural education and human relations education the recency of these publications heralded as seminal may be confusing for certainly the concepts building the field of multicultural education and human relations education have been around much longer True But for the first time we found the conceptual framework guiding principles and critical works across disciplines and fields in Smith's encyclopedic organization Because of the comprehensive nature of Pritchey Smith's knowledge bases they have been employed as the organizing themes for this volume I would clarify that I have not burdened authors to study Smith's analysis and then apply it to their works the categorization is my own And as is true of any topic the interpretation and application may be broadly applicable One of my major goals in founding this series has been to further develop the knowledge bases with voices from those in the trenches literally and figuratively and at the chalkface while proverbial for some parts of the world chalk remains a teaching staple in many regions of the world Throughout this volume authors will explore and research their own discoveries on this journey narratives of crossing cultures and developing communities reconceptualizing democracy and reinterpreting traditions seeking solidarity and sowing the seeds of social justice Through critical reflection in the shade of these giants the reader may discover Ming Fang's bamboo tree Metaphor and Analogy in Science Education Peter J. Aubusson, Allan G. Harrison, Stephen M. Ritchie, 2006-06-28 Years ago a primary teacher told me about a great series of lessons she had just had The class had visited rock pools on the seashore and when she asked them about their observations they talked about it was like a factory it was like a church it was like a garden it was like our kitchen at breakfast time etc Each student's analogy could be elaborated and these analogies provided her with strongly engaged students and a great platform from which to develop their learning about biological diversity and interdependence In everyday life we learn so many things by comparing and contrasting The use of analogies and metaphors is important in science itself and their use in teaching science seems a natural extension but textbooks with their own sparse logic do not help teachers or students David Ausubel in the 1960s had advocated the use of advance organisers to introduce the teaching of conceptual material in the sciences and some of these had an analogical character However research on the value of this idea was cumbersome and indecisive and it ceased after just a few studies In the 1980s research into children s conceptions of scientific phenomena and concepts really burgeoned and it was soon followed by an exploration of a new set of pedagogical strategies that recognised a student in a science class is much more than a tabula rasa

A Social Constructivist Approach to Translator

Education Donald Kiraly, 2014-07-16 This is a book about the teaching and particularly the acquisition of translation related skills and knowledge Well grounded in theory the book also provides numerous examples drawn from the author s extensive classroom experience in translator education and foreign language teaching Kiraly uses a number of classroom case studies to illustrate his method including introductory courses in translation studies project based translation practice courses translation studies seminars as well as naturalistic foreign language learning classes for student translators The book is primarily geared toward translator educators and programme administrators as well as students of translation and will also be of interest to foreign language teachers who incorporate translation into their teaching to translation scholars and to others involved in the world of translation
