Good Southern Prose and Poetry from the Dark Days Marchall Peel, 2003-08 Of Harvest and Home A Small Town Georgia Heritage is about family and farming in the Deep South In 1910 after wandering over Texas Oklahoma and New Mexico for two decades one prodigal son returns with his wife and five children to South Georgia where his older brother has a thriving pecan nursery business It is in Baconton that Benjamin Noel Boo Brown finally sets roots His family becomes one with the people in that garden spot of this section where there is a unique sense of community and a true love for baseball and pecans However home and contentment demand a tremendous price After less than a year in the small community Alice Brown dies and leaves her husband to raise their five children alone That would have been an impossible task for a lesser man but Boo Brown was a man of faith and vision He believed in himself in God and in the innate goodness of mankind The manifestation of that goodness through new found friends and neighbors and much time spent on his knees reinforced Ben s strength and will as was required over subsequent years As he provided for their physical needs he also included music and humor to dispel unavoidable periods of hardship and discontent in his children s journey into adulthood Throughout those years the children sprouted budded and blossomed along with the farm crops Those prone to change with the weather were gently steered back to their proper mettle by a kind but firm hand Just as harvest time comes for the farmer God gathers His own Buds are clipped before they open and a tiny Rose of Sharon loses her mother before she has an opportunity to know her When the tap root is severed the least talented of all of Ben s children becomes the family patriarch The Southern literary messenger ,1835 The Southern and Western Literary Messenger and Review ,1846 The Southern and Western Literary Messenger and Review ,1965 Southern and Western Literary Messenger and Review Edgar Allan Poe,1855 The Southern Lady's Companion ,1849 The Lincoln Library of Essential Information ,1924
