Ayers, Mary F. Berney, 2012-12-06 J T Sandefur Western Kentucky University American s ability to compete in world markets is eroding The productivity growth of our competitors outdistances our own The capacity of our economy to provide a high standard of living for all our people is increasingly in doubt As jobs requiring little skill are automated or go offshore and demand increases for the highly skilled the pool of educated and skilled people grows smaller and the backwater of the unemployable rises Large numbers of American children are in limbo ignorant of the past and unprepared for the future Many are dropping out not just out of school but out of productive society These are not my words They are a direct quote from the Executive Summary of the Carnegie Forum Report on Education and the Economy entitled A Nation Prepared Teachers for the 21st Century p 2 1986 This report was motivated by four purposes 1 To remind Americans yet again of the economic challenges pressing us on all sides 2 To assert the primacy of education as the foundation of economic growth equal opportunity and a shared national vision 3 To reaffirm that the teaching profession is the best hope for establishing new standards of excellence as the hallmark of American education and 4 To point out that a remarkable window of opportunity lies before us in the next decade to reform education an opportunity that may not present itself again until well into the next century

A Brief History of Standards in Teacher Education Roy A. Edelfelt, James Rath, 2004-11-10 With the current emphasis on standards in the schools one may think that this is a new phenomenon However as this pamphlet clearly demonstrates while standards in American schools have a long history dating back to Reconstruction the recommendations for what is needed to improve teacher education are remarkably similar brighter students more realistic classes rigorous general education serious evaluation and so on The reports and guidelines share a zeal for the standards they are promulgating but are thin on research to support their recommendations The irony is that the profession's power is so fragmented and its prestige so ailing that adequate support for teacher education and professional practice remain elusive The report concludes that only a concerted effort by a coalition of organizations could generate the support needed to achieve a major breakthrough in the quality of schooling and teacher education
