Medicine, Health Care, & Ethics John F. Morris, 2007-04 From its earliest beginnings the Catholic Church has cared for the sick and dying of the world as an extension of the healing ministry of Jesus As a natural consequence Catholics have regularly addressed moral issues relating to health care long before the term bioethics was coined Beginning with a deeply nuanced holistic understanding of the human person as their foundation Catholic scholars have developed a person centered ethic with which to approach ethical dilemmas that is understandable and defensible in the light of natural human reason yet which is compatible with the teachings and doctrine of the Church emphasizing the harmony of faith and reason within the Catholic moral tradition Medicine Health Care and Ethics adds to this rich tradition with a collection of contemporary essays that represent the very best efforts of current Catholic scholarship in the field of health care and medical ethics The book begins with an introductory section that explains the basic foundations of the personalist approach to ethics and its development within Catholic thought The remaining parts of the book address timely topics such as artificial reproduction contraception abortion euthanasia genetic engineering stem cell research cloning and health care reform Each author brings a fresh perspective and a wealth of knowledge on these issues that will benefit Catholics as well as non Catholics With general overviews for each section and topic specific bibliographies to guide further study this volume is designed to provide a greater understanding and deeper appreciation of the Catholic perspective on health care and medicine for both newcomers and seasoned students of bioethics alike In today's culture of pluralism and diversity the Catholic tradition has much wisdom to contribute to society's consideration of contemporary problems in medicine and health care This collection of essays is offered in the spirit of open and honest dialogue for all who are seeking to understand that tradition ABOUT THE EDITOR John F Morris associate professor of philosophy at Rockhurst University has published numerous articles on the subject of medical ethics In addition to Morris contributors to the volume are Benedict M Ashley O P Gregory R Beabout John Berkman Clarke E Cochran Catherine Green John F Kavanaugh S J William E May Kevin O Rourke O P Michael D Place Jeanne Schindler and Brendan Sweetman PRAISE FOR THE BOOK Morris intends his book to be used as a supplementary text for courses in bioethics and by members of hospital ethics committees A number of the volume's features recommend it for these audiences Each of the 5 parts of the book has an introduction that is informative lucid and relatively comprehensive These introductions offer an overview of the issue or issues addressed by the essays and briefly describe each presentation Unlike so many collections of multiauthored essays this volume's offerings are consistent in quality and are accessible to the readers for whom they are intended Finally each part of the book concludes with a short but helpful bibliography for further reading or research These qualities of the book recommend it not only for the audiences for which it is intended but also for all educated laypersons clergy and health care professionals who are interested in learning more about a Catholic approach to a variety of controversial issues in bioethics In all likelihood readers will also come away with some valuable insights and wisdom contained in the Catholic tradition and will acquire a better appreciation of the contribution of Catholic voices to debates in bioethics The excellent section introductions and the high quality of each of the essays make this volume a must for anyone wishing to better understand a traditional Catholic approach to bioethics Ronald P Hame Cultural Landscapes Gabriel R.

Ricci, 2018-02-06 A dualism between man and nature has been a persistent feature of Western thought and spirituality from ancient times to the present The opposition of mind and body consciousness and world has tended to obscure the ways in which humans are ecologically part of interconnected systems some of which are obvious while others operate in hidden but life sustaining ways Cultural Landscapes explores the physical ways in which we are intimately linked to the land and the intellectual and aesthetic connections human consciousness has with the landscape Following the editor's introductory essay the lead article by Jame Schaeffer Quest for the Common Good A Collaborative Public Theology for a Life Sustaining Climate assesses the lightning rod issue of global warming in the context of a public and ecumenical theology and sets the tone for this normative assessment of our relationship with nature Likewise David Kenley's essay Three Gorges be Dammed The Philosophical Roots of Environmentalism in China reveals the traditional philosophical and cultural values that can sustain a vital environmentalism in the East David Brown's historical insights into the use of the American landscape to define historical writing complement Patricia Likos Ricci's historical treatment of nineteenth century landscape painting and the first call to preserve wilderness in the United States Matt Willen An Feochszn and David Martinez What Worlds are Made of

The Lakota Sense of Place both demonstrate how space is transformed into place through song and mythic tales On a metaphysical note Andreas Philippopoulos Mihalopolos essay On the Line of the Horizon Anxiety in de Chirico's Metaphysical Spaces provides the reader with psychological and existential insights into the disorienting paintings of de Chirico and Gabriel Ricci's concluding essay tours the landscape that underpins Heidegger's ontological speculations The contributions to this volume are posited on the belief that culture society and human history are ultimately rooted in the natural world This integration may explain why humanity has always looked to nature for moral and ethical guidelines Gabriel R Ricci is associate professor of humanities and the chair of the Department of History at Elizabethtown College in Pennsylvania He is the author of Time Consciousness The Philosophical Uses of History published by Transaction

Latina Evangélicas Loida Martell-Otero, Zaida Maldonado Pérez, Elizabeth Conde-Frazier, 2013-01-15

Latina Evangelicas A Theological Survey from the Margins is a constructive and postcolonial examination of the theology of Protestant Latinas who reside in the United States Written by three Latinas who have pastored and who teach in Latina o communities the book seeks to expand beyond Latina feminist and mujerista voices to include those whose perspectives have not yet been heard It thus introduces an important theological perspective to a wider audience and provides an important resource that has been lacking for evangelicas os and other marginalized groups who study in various theological programs Key terminology such as evangelica is defined throughout and a glossary is included for non Spanish speaking readers Each chapter considers theological themes important to the Latina Protestant worshipping community beginning with a constructive discussion of the doctrine of the Holy Spirit and followed by the doctrines of salvation and Jesus Christ the Trinity the church Scripture and the last things eschatology Given that one of the characteristics of Latina o theologies is their dialogical and collaborative nature the book concludes with a conversation among the three authors about the theological thinking that took place in its composition Study questions are included at the end of each chapter

Distribution of Resources in the Nigerian Health Care System Anthony Okechukwu Nnadi, 2020-01-09 This publication representing the doctoral dissertation of Rev Fr Anthony Okechukwu Nnadi examines the healthcare system in Nigeria in the light of the Catholic social teaching He supports that the allocation of health care resources is not only a matter of organization but is also an ethical problem The debacles and failure of the Nigerian health system result from many factors including lack of will to implement the right policies on the ground corruption among the leaders lack of justice lack of respect for the dignity of each human person mismanagement and insufficient consideration and application of ethical principles in the administration of common good especially in the distribution of health care and social resources For the distribution of health care resources this doctoral dissertation suggests that priority be given to the basic health care needs of Nigerian citizens especially those who have no means of satisfying these needs themselves In this context the research affirms that great attention needs to be paid to ensuring that the principle of human dignity is completely respected in each and every policy in this important area This doctoral thesis is an ethical vision of social reality in Nigeria It proposes the person centred Catholic principles as a possible way forward in the distribution of health care resources in Nigeria It does not imply substituting the economic political and health care experts in offering technical solutions in their areas of competence The author is convinced that healthcare allocation is also an ethical issue that needs to be governed by ethical principles The key factors for choosing this theme are based on the author s knowledge of the deplorable condition of the health care system in Nigeria and his desire to save human lives Rev Fr Anthony Okechukwu Nnadi believes that we are all stewards of human life This implies a moral obligation to protect the dignity of the human person which is inseparable from protecting human life

Catholic Moral Theology in the United States Charles E. Curran,2008-04-11 In this magisterial volume Charles E Curran surveys the historical development of Catholic moral theology in the United States from its 19th century roots to the present day He begins by tracing the development of pre Vatican II moral theology that with the exception of social ethics had the limited purpose of training future confessors to know what actions are sinful and the degree of sinfulness Curran then explores and illuminates the post Vatican II era with chapters on the effect of the Council on the scope and substance of moral theology the impact of Humanae vitae Pope Paul VI s encyclical condemning artificial contraception fundamental moral theology sexuality and marriage bioethics and social ethics Curran s perspective is unique For nearly 50 years he has been a major influence on the development of the field and has witnessed first hand the dramatic increase in the number and diversity of moral theologians in the academy and the Church No one is more qualified to write this first and only comprehensive history of Catholic moral theology in the United States

The Common Good and Christian Ethics David Hollenbach, 2002-08 The Common Good and Christian Ethics rethinks the ancient tradition of the common good in a way that addresses contemporary social divisions both urban and global David Hollenbach draws on social analysis moral philosophy and theological ethics to chart new directions in both urban life and global society He argues that the division between the middle class and the poor in major cities and the challenges of globalisation require a new commitment to the common good and that both believers and secular people must move towards new forms of solidarity

Allocating Scarce Medical Resources H. Tristram Engelhardt Jr., Mark J. Cherry, 2002-05-20 Roman Catholic moral theology is the point of departure for this multifaceted exploration of the challenge of allocating scarce medical resources The volume begins its exploration of discerning moral limits to modern high technology medicine with a consensus statement born of the conversations among its contributors The seventeen essays use the example of critical care because it offers one of the few areas in medicine where there are good clinical predictive measures regarding the likelihood of survival As a result the health care industry can with increasing accuracy predict the probability of saving lives and at what cost Because critical care involves hard choices in the face of finitude it invites profound questions about the meaning of life the nature of a good death and distributive justice For those who identify the prize of human life as immortality the question arises as to how much effort should be invested in marginally postponing death In a secular culture that presumes that individuals live only once and briefly there is an often unacknowledged moral imperative to employ any means necessary to postpone death The conflict between the free choice of individuals and various aspirations to equality compounds the challenge of controlling medical costs while also offering high tech care to those who want its possible benefits It forces society to confront anew notions of ordinary versus extraordinary and proportionate versus disproportionate treatment in a highly technologically structured social context This cluster of discussions is enriched by five essays from Jewish Orthodox Christian and Protestant perspectives Written by premier scholars from the United States and abroad these essays will be valuable reading for students and scholars of bioethics and Christian moral theology

Aquinas, Feminism, and the Common Good Susanne M. DeCrane, 2004-01-29 To dismiss the work of philosophers and theologians of the past because of their limited perceptions of the whole of humankind is tantamount to tossing the tot out with the tub water Such is the case when feminist scholars of religion and ethics confront Thomas Aquinas whose views of women can only be described as misogynistic Rather than dispense with him Susanne DeCrane seeks to engage Aquinas and reflect his otherwise compelling thought through the prism of feminist theology hermeneutics and ethics Focusing on one of Aquinas's great intellectual contributions the fundamental notion of the common good in short the human will toward peace and justice DeCrane demonstrates the currency of that notion through a contemporary social issue women's health care in the United States and specifically black women and breast cancer In her skillful re engagement with Aquinas DeCrane shows that certain aspects of religious traditions heretofore understood as oppressive to women and minority groups can actually be parsed retrieved and used to rectify social ills Aquinas Feminism and the Common Good is a bold and intellectually rigorous feminist retrieval of an important text by a Catholic scholar seeking to remain in the tradition while demanding that the tradition live up to its emphasis on human equity and justice

Commodified Health Care and Lay Catholic Social Spirituality Vivencio Ballano, 2025-07-01 This book establishes a lay social spirituality for health care practitioners that pursues the Catholic Church's social teachings on the preferential option for the poor structural sin and health care reform to address today's commodification of the health care system where maximizing profit and patient's capacity to pay become the primary consideration Applying a sociotheological approach that combines the perspectives of modern sociology Catholic social doctrines and Pope Francis's inductive synodal theology as well as drawing from secondary literature media reports and church documents it argues for the necessity of a holistic interdisciplinary and synodal lay Catholic social spirituality that is informed by Pope Francis's synodality Presenting sociological research for health care practitioners to uphold options for the poor in public health it envisions a lay spirituality that participates in civil society's health care reform agenda at the macro level and practices Christian and Ignatian discernment at the micro level as its main behavioral components This book appeals to Christian health care actors entrepreneurs and spiritual directors as well as scholars and students in sociology religion moral theology bioethics and spirituality

Theological Bioethics Lisa Sowle Cahill, 2005-11-16 The field of bioethics was deeply influenced by religious thinkers as it emerged in the 1960s and early 1970s Since that time however a seemingly neutral political liberalism has pervaded the public sphere resulting in a deep suspicion of those bringing religious values to bear on questions of bioethics and public policy As a theological ethicist and progressive Catholic Lisa Sowle Cahill does not want to cede the religious perspective to fundamentalists and the pro life movement nor does she want to submit to the gospel of a political liberalism that champions individual autonomy as holy writ In Theological Bioethics Cahill calls for progressive religious thinkers and believers to join in the effort to reclaim the best of their traditions through jointly engaging political forces at both community and national levels In Cahill's eyes just access to health care must be the number one priority for this type of participatory bioethics She describes a new understanding of theological bioethics that must go beyond decrying injustice beyond opposing social practices that commercialize human beings beyond painting a vision of a more egalitarian future Such a participatory bioethics she argues must also take account of and take part in a global social network of mobilization for change it must seek out those in solidarity those involved in a common calling to create a more just social political and economic system During the past two decades Cahill has made profound contributions to theological ethics and bioethics This is a magisterial and programmatic statement that will alter how the religiously inclined understand their role in the great bioethics debates of today and tomorrow that yearn for clear
