Hawthorne's Visual Artists and the Pursuit of a Transatlantic

Aesthetics Kumiko Mukai, 2008. Among Hawthorne's primary themes the visual arts have usually been regarded as an afterthought and have only been examined to elucidate his own personal philosophy. Hawthorne's own contemporaries derided him for his mediocre aesthetics and that view has been taken as received wisdom up to the present day. This study reexamines Hawthorne's aesthetics and suggests that he was much more familiar with the art and artists of the time than has previously been acknowledged by critics. He developed his own eclectic and transatlantic view of art, a view which incorporated decorative arts like embroidery while maintaining a modest estimation of his own talents. This book examines the full range of visual artists whom Hawthorne portrays. It argues that these portrayals illuminate the artist's dilemma of being fettered by New England Puritanism while at the same time being attracted to the richness and depth of both Victorian aesthetics and the artistic sense of Old World Catholicism. The ambiguous destinies of his artist characters include misunderstandings and disputes while at the same time they suggest a reconciliation of the conflicting sentiments and transatlantic perspectives of the writer himself.

Hawthorne's The Marble Faun Richard E. Mezo, 1999-05. Since its publication in 1860 critics have questioned the artistic value of Hawthorne's The Marble Faun. A revival of critical interest during the 1950s and 1960s has done little to change a generally unfavorable opinion of the work. With a few notable exceptions most recent critics believe The Marble Faun to be inferior to Hawthorne's other completed romances. Such opinions however usually seem to be based upon the personal taste of the individual critic rather than upon any sort of objective artistic standards. The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the various critical approaches to The Marble Faun. These interpretations provide the basis for a re-appraisal of the work. A study of the structure, the main themes and the characters of The Marble Faun reveals that it is not an inferior work of art. In many respects The Marble Faun reflects the maturity of Hawthorne's artistic and philosophical beliefs. The Marble Faun is a work capable of standing on its own merits. Some critics have misunderstood Hawthorne's aesthetic principles. Hawthorne thought that art should be used to suggest moral values. The power of art he believed was in its suggestiveness. The creation of an ideal beauty which has no exact counterpart in the material world suggests the reality of an unknowable divine providence. However the value of a work of art depends upon the mood of the viewer. The viewer must assist the artist with his sympathy and imagination in an act of continual creation The work of art will reflect back only those qualities which are brought to it by the viewer Hawthorne's view of life is similar to the philosophy expressed by modern Christian existentialists Throughout his writings Hawthorne's concern for humanity is evident In The Marble Faun Hawthorne explores a problem which has become almost an obsession of modern man This problem is the question of man's moral position in what seems to be a meaningless if not hostile universe The most important theme of The Marble Faun is a consideration of the consequences of man's alienation from other men from God and from nature The structure and the themes of The Marble Faun are developed through the actions of the major characters Hilda Miriam Donatello and Kenyon are each transformed by a fall from relative innocence into a world of suffering humanity Donatello's transformation from faun to man is more striking than the transformations of the other three characters and it is his fall which leads to the question of the felix culpa Although Hilda and Kenyon are ultimately less mature characters than Donatello and Miriam they also benefit from their experiences in Rome Hawthorne's belief in the brotherhood of all men is demonstrated by the experiences of the major characters in The Marble Faun Whether or not it is their wish each of these characters must accept the responsibility for his own actions and each must become involved with humanity It is Hawthorne's deep concern for the human condition profoundly expressed in his art which makes The Marble Faun a work of enduring importance to our civilization

The Esoteric Origins of the American Renaissance Arthur Versluis, 2001 Here Arthur Versluis breaks new ground showing that many writers of the American Renaissance drew extensively on and were inspired by Western esoteric currents Thus he demonstrates that Alcott and Emerson were indebted to Hermeticism Christian theosophy and Neoplatonism Fuller to alchemy and Rosicrucianism Hawthorne to alchemy and Melville to Gnosticism In addition to offering a detailed analysis of the esoteric elements in the writings of figures from the American Renaissance Versluis presents an overview of esotericism in Europe and its offshoots in colonial America This innovative work will interest students and scholars of religion literature American studies and esotericism Jacket     Hawthorne's Redemption Gary P.

Cranford,2012-10 This book serves to feed human nature with both a religious and literary mood It may bring the reader a little closer to an understanding of life s complexities or it may challenge the reader s own philosophical self as he or she discovers the unraveling of Hawthorne s The editor of the book which has been composed from his memory of an unknown student s work claims to have unearthed a rare discovery that may unveil a mystery that has puzzled the best of minds in the literary field for many years In the words of its author his purpose is clear I have thought to publish my interpretations of Hawthorne s novel so that those critics in the field of literature who will may have additional cause for which to expound their intelligence either in trying to better understand this mystery or to salvage the old cherished ambiguities by which the public brain is presently intoxicated If I am correct in only a few of my impressions hopefully the main ones we shall have to reappraise Hawthorne as a literary prophet who hoped for and predicted a future time when mankind would look more favorable upon the creation man Both the author and editor send the reader on a journey into the mind and heart of an American icon which have too long been misunderstood and underappreciated He asks the reader to drink deep from the depths of his or her own intuitive awakenings and encourages each to rediscover the man who created The Scarlet Letter In so doing one may see the vexations and conflicts in his own life as a dark necessity to be endured as in the character of his beloved Hester who speaks to the heart of every human and in behalf of our own human nature     Knave, Fool, and Genius
