HIV, Resurgent Infections and Population Change in Africa Michel Caraël, Judith Glynn, 2008-08-12 Forty years ago the age old battle against infectious diseases as a major threat to human health was believed close to being won However by the late twentieth century the increase of emerging and reemerging infectious diseases was evident in both low and high income countries About 30 new infectious diseases have been identified in the last 20 years Among the new diseases and most importantly the Human Immunodeficiency Virus HIV epidemic with 40 million persons infected and 25 million deaths since its first description presents one of the most significant health societal and security challenges facing the global community The interaction of HIV AIDS with tuberculosis malaria and bacterial infections have increased HIV related morbidity and mortality and in turn the HIV pandemic has brought about devastating increases in tuberculosis Understanding the population impact and the dynamics of infection diseases in the most affected region is critical to efforts to reduce the morbidity and mortality of such infections and for decisions on where to use limited resources in the fight against infections This book aims to contribute to these efforts by offering a demographic and epidemiological perspective on emerging and reemerging infections in sub Saharan Africa Disease and Mortality in Sub-Saharan Africa Dean T. Jamison,2006-01-01 Current data and trends in morbidity and mortality for the sub Saharan Region as presented in this new edition reflect the heavy toll that HIV AIDS has had on health indicators leading to either a stalling or reversal of the gains made not just for communicable disorders but for cancers as well as mental and neurological disorders

The Demography of Europe Gerda Neyer,Gunnar Andersson,Hill Kulu,Laura Bernardi,Christoph Bühler,2013-04-22 Over the past decades Europe has witnessed fundamental changes of its population dynamics and population structure Fertility has fallen below replacement level in almost all European countries while childbearing behavior and family formation have become more diverse Life expectancy has increased in Western Europe for both females and males but has been declining for men in some Eastern European countries Immigration from non European countries has increased substantially as has mobility within Europe These changes pose major challenges to population studies as conventional theoretical assumptions regarding demographic behavior and demographic development seem unfit to provide convincing explanations of the recent demographic changes This book derived from the symposium on The Demography of Europe held at the Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research in Rostock Germany in November 2007 in honor of Professor Jan M Hoem brings together leading population researchers in the area of fertility family migration life expectancy and mortality The contributions present key issues of the new demography of Europe and discuss key research advances to understand the continent s demographic development at the turn of the 21st century
