Educating The Deaf:

Educating the Deaf Donald F. Moores, 1978 Raising and Educating a Deaf Child Marc Marschark, 2009 The second edition of this guide offers a readable comprehensive summary of everything a parent or teacher would want to know about raising and educating a deaf child It covers topics ranging from what it means to be deaf to the many ways that the environments of home and school can influence a deaf child's chances for success in academic and social circles The new edition provides expanded coverage of cochlear implants spoken language mental health and educational issues relating to deaf children enrolled in integrated and separate settings Marschark makes sense of the most current educational and scientific literature and also talks to deaf children their parents and deaf adults about what is important to them Raising and Educating a Deaf Child is not a how to book or one with all the right answers for raising a deaf child rather it is a guide through the conflicting suggestions and programs for raising deaf children as well as the likely implications of taking one direction or the other Evidence-Based Practice in Educating Deaf and Hard-of-Hearing Students Patricia Elizabeth Spencer, Marc Marschark, 2010-07-21 An excellent book for both the experienced practitioner or academic and those new to the field of deaf education As well as addressing the findings of research it also discusses the research procedures necessary for studies to contribute towards an adequate evidence base It is an important book likely to influence practice and is recommended to all with an interest in the education of deaf children and young people Susan Gregory Former Reader in Deaf Education University of Birmingham U K Educating Deaf Learners Harry Knoors, Marc Marschark, 2015-06-10 Education in general and education for deaf learners in particular has gone through significant changes over the past three decades And change certainly will be the buzzword in the foreseeable future The rapid growth of information and communication technology as well as progress in educational psychological and allied research fields have many scholars questioning aspects of traditional school concepts For example should the classroom be flipped so that students receive instruction online at home and do homework in school At the same time inclusive education has changed the traditional landscape of special education and thus of deaf education in many if not all countries and yet deaf children continued to lag significantly behind hearing peers in academic achievement As a consequence of technological innovations e.g. digital hearing aids and early bilateral cochlear implants the needs of many deaf learners have changed considerably Parents and professionals however are just now coming to recognize that there are cognitive experiential and social emotional differences between deaf and hearing students likely to affect academic outcomes Understanding such differences and determining ways in which to accommodate them through global cooperation must become a top priority in educating deaf learners Through the participation of an international interdisciplinary set of scholars Educating Deaf Learners takes a broader view of learning and academic achievement than any previous work considering the whole child In adopting this broad perspective the authors capture the complexities and commonalities in the social emotional cognitive and linguistic mosaic of which the deaf child is a part It is only through such a holistic consideration that we can understand their academic potential

Educating Deaf Students: From Research to Practice Marc Marschark, Harry G. Lang, John A. Albertini, 2001-11-29

Over the past decade there has been a significant increase in interest from educators and the general public about deafness special education and the development of children with special needs The education of deaf children in the United States has been seen as a remarkable success story around the world even while it continues to engender domestic debate In Educating Deaf Students From Research to Practice Marc Marschark Harry G Lang and John A Albertini set aside the politics rhetoric and confusion that often accompany discussions of deaf education Instead they offer an accessible evaluation of the research literature on the needs and strengths of deaf children and on the methods that have been used successfully and unsuccessfully to teach both deaf and hearing children The authors lay out the common assumptions that have driven deaf education for many years revealing some of them to be based on questionable methods conclusions or interpretations while others have been lost in the cacophony of alternative educational philosophies They accompany their historical consideration of how this came to pass with an evaluation of the legal and social conditions surrounding deaf education today By evaluating what we know what we do not know and what we thought we knew about learning among deaf children the authors provide parents teachers and administrators valuable new insights into educating deaf students and others with special needs

How Deaf Children Learn Marc Marschark, Peter C. Hauser, 2011-12-01 How can parents and teachers most effectively support the language development and academic success of deaf and hard of hearing children Will using sign language interfere with learning spoken language Should deaf children be placed in classrooms with hearing children Are traditional methods of teaching subjects such as reading and math to hearing children appropriate for deaf learners As many parents and teachers will attest questions like these have no easy answers and it can be difficult for caring adults to separate science from politics and fact from opinion in order to make informed decisions about how to help deaf children learn In this invaluable guide renowned authorities Marc Marschark and Peter Hauser highlight important new advances in scientific and educational research that can help parents and teachers of students with significant hearing loss The authors stress that deaf children have strengths and needs that are sometimes very different from those who can hear Consequently if deaf students are to have full academic access and optimal educational outcomes it is essential that parents and teachers learn to recognize these differences and adjust their teaching methods to them Marschark and Hauser explain how the fruits of research conducted over the last several years can markedly improve educational practices at home and in the classroom and they offer innovative strategies that parents and teachers can use to promote learning in their children The result is a lively accessible volume that sheds light on what it means to be a deaf learner and that provides a wealth of advice on how we can best support their language development social skills and academic success

The Challenge of Educating Together Deaf and Hearing Youth Paul C. Higgins, 1990

Language Learning in Children Who Are Deaf and Hard of Hearing Susan R. Easterbrooks, 2020-11-03 This volume is the long awaited revision of the only textbook on primary language instruction written with classroom teachers of deaf and hard of hearing children TODs in mind It builds on the work of the previous edition describing the experiences of four real TODs and demonstrates practical application of the concepts discussed Up to date chapters on theory of language learning assessment and evidence based practice supplement specific examples of real cases in the field Avoiding promotion of one teaching philosophy over another this volume demonstrates the commonalities across classroom language instruction approaches for DHH children and helps guide teachers to enhance learning outcomes

Educational and Developmental Aspects of Deafness Donald F. Moores, 1990 Educational and Developmental Aspects of Deafness details the ongoing revolution in the education of deaf children More than 20 researchers contributed their discoveries in anthropology education linguistics psychology sociology and other major disciplines with special concentration upon the education of deaf children Divided into two parts on education at home and in school this incisive book documents breakthroughs such as the public s interest in sign language the increasing availability of interpreters the growing perception of deafness as a social condition not a pathology and other positive trends It is unique as the first purely research based text and reference point for further study of the education of deaf children

Teaching Deaf Learners Harry Knoors, PhD, Marc Marschark, 2014-05 Teaching Deaf Learners asserts that the education of deaf learners profits from an ecological approach to learning and teaching

Deaf Learners Donald F. Moores, David S. Martin, 2006 This in depth collection by 17 renowned international scholars that details a developmental framework to maximize academic success for deaf students from kindergarten through grade 12 Part One The Context commences with an overview of the state of general education and that of deaf learners followed by a state of the art philosophical position on the selection of curriculum Part Two The Content considers critical subjects for deaf learners and how to deliver them including mathematics print literacy science social studies and physical education This section also addresses the role of itinerant services as well as how to teach Deaf culture provide for students with multiple disabilities and facilitate school to work transitions Part Three Instructional Considerations Across the Curriculum provides suggestions and guidelines for assessing and planning programs for deaf students using meaningful contexts optimizing the academic performance of deaf students with emphasis on access and opportunities implementing a cognitive strategy that encourages teaching for and about thinking as an overriding principle establishing instructional and practical communication in the classroom especially in relation to ASL and English based signing and solving old problems with new strategies including Web based technologies resources and applications The lessons of these assembled scholars coalesce in the Part Four Summary as a general recommendation for ongoing adaptability a fitting capstone to this extraordinary volume of work

Deaf Education Beyond the Western World Harry Knoors, Maria Brons, Marc Marschark, 2019-01-16 If teachers want to educate deaf learners effectively they have to apply evidence informed methods and didactics with the needs of individual deaf students in mind Education in general and education for deaf learners in particular is situated in broader societal contexts where what works within the Western world may be quite different from what works beyond the Western world By exploring practice based and research based evidence about deaf education in countries that largely have been left out of the international discussion thus far this volume encourages more researchers in more countries to continue investigating the learning environment of deaf learners based on the premise of leaving no one behind Featuring chapters centering on 19 countries from Africa Asia Latin America and Central and Eastern Europe the volume offers a picture of deaf education from the perspectives of local scholars and teachers who demonstrate best practices and challenges within their respective regional contexts This volume addresses the notion of learning through the exchange of knowledge outlines the commonalities and differences between practices and policies in educating deaf and hard of hearing learners and looks ahead to the prospects for the future development of deaf education research in the context of recently adopted international legal frameworks Stimulating academic exchange regionally and globally among scholars and teachers who are fascinated by and invested in deaf education this volume strengthens the foundation for further improvement of education for deaf children all around the world

Methods of Educating the Deaf National Association of the Deaf,1914 Educating Deaf Children Bilingually Shawn Neal Mahshie,1995 Educating Deaf Students Desmond John Power,Greg Leigh,2004 From the 19th International Congress on Deaf Education 27 researchers span the entire student age range in describing the zeitgeist of deaf education at turn of the 21st century Diversity in Deaf Education Marc Marschark,Venetta Lampropoulou,Emmanouil K. Skordilis,2016 Education for deaf learners has gone through significant changes in recent decades and the needs of many have changed considerably Meanwhile the population of deaf learners only has become more diverse This volume adopts a broad international perspective capturing the complexities and commonalities in the development of deaf learners as well as the challenges and potential solutions involved in supporting their learning and academic outcomes Education of the Deaf United States. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Secretary's Advisory Committee on the Education of the Deaf,1965 Languages and Languaging in Deaf Education Ruth Swanwick,2016-11-15 Languages and Languaging in Deaf Education offers a profound vision for deaf education and studies as author Ruth Swanwick offers bold contributions towards a new pedagogical framework With a primary focus on the language and learning experiences of deaf children this book creates a crucial dialogue between the field of deaf education and studies and the wider field of language education and research Swanwick s fresh perspective on languages and languaging in deaf education brings new understandings of children s language repertoire and further extends the meaning and application of dynamic plurilingual pedagogies Ruth Swanwick addresses two major questions essential to the field How do we understand and describe deaf children s language use and experience in terms of current concepts of language plurality and diversity And how does knowledge of and a different perspective on deaf children s language diversity and pluralism inform pedagogy In this latest addition to the Professional Perspectives on Deafness series Swanwick presents a new framework to imagine the classroom synthesizing multilingual language practices translanguaging research and practice

Words Made Flesh R. A. R. Edwards, 2012 During the early nineteenth century schools for the deaf appeared in the United States for the first time These schools were committed to the use of the sign language to educate deaf students Manual education made the growth of the deaf community possible for it gathered deaf people together in sizable numbers for the first time in American history It also fueled the emergence of Deaf culture as the schools became agents of cultural transformations Just as the Deaf community began to be recognized as a minority culture in the 1850s a powerful movement arose to undo it namely oral education Advocates of oral education deeply influenced by the writings of public school pioneer Horace Mann argued that deaf students should stop signing and should start speaking in the hope that the Deaf community would be abandoned and its language and culture would vanish In this revisionist history Words Made Flesh explores the educational battles of the nineteenth century from both hearing and deaf points of view It places the growth of the Deaf community at the heart of the story of deaf education and explains how the unexpected emergence of Deafness provoked the pedagogical battles that dominated the field of deaf education in the nineteenth century and still reverberate today
