School Management and Effectiveness in Developing Countries Clive Harber, Lynn Davies, 2006-02-08 This book is quite different from existing Western books on school effectiveness It describes and analyses the way in which schools operate in developing countries and also tries to explain why they are as they are Examining them at three levels the macro the meso and the micro the authors use a theoretical framework that they have termed post bureaucracy The book has four interlinked sections First the authors examine the existing economic and theoretical contexts around school effectiveness including an analysis of the causes of economic crisis and its impact on school management In the second section the analysis of schools as bureaucratic facades is proposed The reality of school life from which any theory of school effectiveness must derive is illustrated by an ethnographic account of the job of the headteacher in developing countries The third section explores different ways to understand this reality operating on three levels global relationships national and community cultures and individual agency In the final section Harber and Davies draw these levels and realities together They argue for the democratization of schools as the only way forward for effective education for development

Globalization, Privatization, and the State D. Brent Edwards Jr., Mauro C. Moschetti, Alejandro Caravaca, 2022-08-16 This text explores how the dynamics of globalization and privatization have influenced State policy and impacted education reform in Honduras It makes the argument that understanding education reform in post colonial contexts requires that scholars go beyond a surface level description of such trends as privatization to consider in addition the ways that the logics practices and relationships that characterized colonialism continue to be embedded in the apparatus of modern States The first part of the volume documents historical trends and the evolution of privatisation in Honduras while the second part explicitly engages in an extended discussion of State theory before shifting to present a framework for depicting how these logics are the foundational layer upon which states and global governance have been constructed The framework draws upon scholarship from political economy world systems and post colonialism to depict the ethos of privatization at the core of post colonial States wherein what drives the system is private benefit in the interest of individuals and their networks but not in the interest of those outside the State Applying this unique framework to the case of Honduras and offering empirical analysis of the Honduran education sector the changing role and priorities of the State and the increasing involvement of international organizations NGOs and private actors in the provision of education the text increases understanding of how State theory interacts with broader global dynamics to impact education This text will benefit researchers academics and educators with a focus on international and comparative education policy analysis globalization and international development Third International Handbook of Globalisation, Education and Policy Research Joseph Zajda, 2021-09-17 This handbook presents a global overview of current research in education and education policy reforms during the last decade. It provides an accessible practical and comparative source of current research that examines the intersecting and diverse discourses of this important issue. It first examines globalisation, education and policy research and reforms in higher education including coverage of main trends in education and policy reforms globally as well as specific policy issues such as gender equity, minorities and human rights. Next, the handbook offers a comparative perspective that evaluates the ambivalent and problematic relationship between globalisation, the state and education reforms globally. It features coverage on curricula issues and education reforms in schools around the world, the curriculum in the global culture as well as globalisation and education futures with respect to social justice and human rights. Education, Modern Development, and Indigenous Knowledge Seana McGovern, 2013-06-17 This book reconceptualizes the field of international and comparative education by utilizing indigenous knowledge as a central component for altering the dominant eurocentric social science research paradigm. Examples from indigenous sources of knowledge are juxtaposed to the dominant discourses on education and modern development in subaltern societies in order to provide scholars with alternative ways of viewing education and development and to shape how subaltern peoples are understood and represented in academic research. Peace Education in a Postmodern World Ian M. Harris, 2013-12-16 This special issue of the Peabody Journal of Education provides a comprehensive overview of the latest developments in peace education reform. School reforms based upon principles of peace education have in common a belief in the power of peace to create a positive learning climate in schools and to address the problems of violence in the broader culture. A peace education strategy for improving school productivity rests upon three main assumptions: 1. Violence contributes to the poor performance of many students. 2. Adults in school settings need to address problems created by violence in order for schools to improve. 3. Anxieties that make it hard for students to master traditional subject matter can best be addressed by a comprehensive peace education strategy that makes school a safe place to learn and provides students with knowledge about alternative nonviolent ways to resolve conflicts. Peace building reforms go beyond responding to immediate forms of violence that may be overwhelming students and teachers to promoting positive images of peace through the study of nonviolence. Written by established experts in the field of peace education from six different countries, this collection of articles not only represents a wide variety of peace education practices from different corners of the globe but it also represents varying academic perspectives. Educators can play a key role in helping human societies progress toward more sustainable ways of living by implementing peacemaking, peacekeeping
