Educating Young Handicapped Children A Developmental Approach:

Educating Young Handicapped Children S. Gray Garwood,1983 Assessment of Young Developmentally Disabled Children Theodore D. Wachs,Robert Sheehan,2013-06-29 Our knowledge of the cognitive and social emotional functioning of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers derives in large part from our assessment of such children This book has been developed to familiarize readers with the characteristics of developmentally disabled children and to introduce to readers aspects of measurement that are of relevance to the assessment of atypical infants and preschoolers The book has been developed with clinicians and prospective clinicians in mind These are individuals who are committed to the care and education of developmentally disabled infants and preschoolers and the families of those children The book has thus been written to provide support for the use of assessment data in planning early intervention programs Of special note in the development of this edited book is that it is divided into four major parts with interrelated chapters in each part The authors of chapters in Parts II and III had access to the chapters in Part I before writing their chapters The summary chapters found in Part IV were similarly written by authors having access to all chapters in Parts I III This approach to the development of an edited book was chosen as a way of ensuring an integration of major concepts throughout the book This process is also a reflection of our belief that assessment is an interdisciplinary process involving the synthesis of a number of diverse interests

Education and Disability in Cross-Cultural Perspective Susan Jeanne Peters,2013-11-26 A radical departure from previous chronicles of education for people with disabilities this book views special education from a broader perspective Its central thesis is that cultural values and expectations play a dominant role in understanding the structure and function of special education While theories of the social construction of disability have been written about in a growing body of research since the 1960s no attempt has been made to create a cross cultural framework This work offers such a framework Eight chapters written by educators in each country's educational system cover the following nations China Great Britain Hungary Japan Iran Pakistan United States and Zimbabwe Historical discussions in each chapter provide a context for current practice An index and illustrations are also included

Meadow-Orlans, Patricia Elizabeth

Spencer, Lynne Sanford Koester, 2004-06-17 What is the impact of an infant's diminished hearing on the infant and its parents? How does communication develop in cases of diminished hearing? How does diminished hearing affect social and cognitive development? What types of early interventions can improve communication and development in infants with diminished hearing? The World of Deaf Infants presents the results of a 15-year research study that addresses these questions. Through their research, perhaps the largest long-term comparison of deaf and hearing infants, Meadow-Orlans's team provides a comprehensive and intimate look into the world of deaf infants. For a core group of 80 families that includes all four combinations of parent/infant hearing status, data was collected longitudinally at 9, 12, 15, and 18 months, and mother/infant interactions were recorded and observed in both structured and unstructured settings. Mothers' facial, vocal, and tactile behaviors during interactions were related to infants' temperament and stress; mothers' linguistic and communication behaviors as well as their overall responsiveness were related to children's language and the effects of support provided to mothers were evaluated and explored. The results were dramatic, particularly those on infant attachment behaviors and the importance of visual attention to the overall development of deaf infants. This comprehensive work provides a foundation on which researchers, teachers, students, and parents can build to improve communication, cognitive, and social development and to enhance the world of deaf infants The Assessment of Learning Disabilities Larry B. Inclusive Education in Zimbabwe Tsediso Michael Makoelle, Tsitsi Chataika, 2025-02-24 This book aims to provide a comprehensive review of the state of inclusive education in Zimbabwe since the adoption of the philosophy in 1994. While literature exists that accounts for the situation regarding special and inclusive education in Zimbabwe, there is a need for a more thorough and complete understanding of the state of inclusive education in the country. This book explores and reflects on the perspectives of various stakeholders within the Zimbabwean education system. It offers a conceptual understanding of the implementation of inclusive education in a postcolonial and politically troubled Zimbabwe and provides recommendations for policy development and formulation as well as the development and strengthening of inclusive teaching and learning practices. The insights offered in this book could have a significant impact on clarifying the roles of stakeholders and ensuring that education provision leads to student support that addresses the needs of all students in Zimbabwe Research
