Researchers interested in various aspects of college leadership and management will find this book a convenient and scholarly introduction to related research in the school sector. Further Education Development Agency College Research Journal. Educational management has become an important academic subject. The contributors to this volume have guaranteed its survival as such by undertaking this review in order that they and others working in the field may take account of a range of agendas and initiatives. The outcome must be a fresh stance and a new sense of direction to enable a study of educational management to meet the needs of teachers and their schools in the new millennium. Educational Research. Educational Management brings together important original contributions from leading thinkers in the field. Edited by some of the key figures in educational management today, chapters examine the following key areas: Has self management achieved the success predicted for it? What should be the nature of professional development for educational leaders? To what extent can education benefit by drawing from practice in business and industry? Can theory inform management practice in education? How can research contribute to educational improvement? How can leaders help improve classroom practice? Educational Management is one of the major outcomes of the ESRC Economic and Social Research Council seminar series which aimed to redefine educational management in the light of the many developments in policy, practice, theory and research since the subject became established in the 1970s. Educational Administration Frederick C. School Administration Stanley W. Williams, 1983 The Postmodern Challenge to the Theory and Practice of Educational Administration Fenwick W. English, 2003

Based on nearly a decade of scholarship, this is a highly focused book on the implications of postmodernism for the construction and assessment of theory and practice in educational administration. Current ideas of practice are deconstructed from the notions of sound research to the use of national standards in the preparation of educational leaders along with ways of examining and resolving the theory-practice gap. Part One of the book contains chapters dealing with the rise of postmodernism and describes its broad-based dissent from a century of thought in the field, including a penetrating examination of whether the concept of a field itself is viable. Part Two of the book explores the many ramifications of postmodernism to practice, beginning with ideas concerning educational research. These chapters tackle the tough issues of the efficacy of the Interstate Leaders Licensure Standards (ISLLC) and the national exam as examples of job deskilling and deprofessionalization in the guise of raising standards of preparation of future educational leaders. Other chapters deal with deconstructing the popular managerial ideas contained in Stephen Covey's works and dispute Joe Murphy's call for a new center of gravity in the field as reinforcing the status quo. Finally, the book tackles the issue of the theory-practice gap and indicates that new and progressive theories which anticipate problems of practice are what is required to deal with this persistent issue. The book contains many helpful exhibits in understanding the issues concerning theory and practice as well as a glossary of terms most commonly found in postmodern discourse. This book is designed for college and university programs engaged in the preparation of educational leaders for elementary, secondary schools and college administrative positions.
